Behavior Concerns Advice Line: (512) 232-5050
Are you worried about a student in your class? Are you concerned about the behavior of your roommate or co-worker, but you’re not sure what to do? Trained staff members are available 24 hours a day to assist the caller in exploring available options and strategies. Callers can remain anonymous and confidentiality will be maintained as much as possible, however the university may be required to release some information to appropriate parties.

Office for Inclusion and Equity
The Office for Inclusion and Equity (OIE) partners with the university’s ADA coordinators to oversee compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and evaluate employee requests for workplace accommodations. Employees should direct requests for accommodations to OIE. Also, if you believe you are experiencing disability discrimination or harassment, you are encouraged to contact the Office for Inclusion and Equity.
