Cultivating Life Skills for Student-Athletes

Urban Economic Development in South Africa

Join Dr. Leonard N. Moore and the Division of Diversity and Community Engagement for a week-long study abroad experience designed for student-athletes.

In addition to classroom learning, student-athletes will engage in service learning experiences with organizations in low-income communities. By volunteering with these organizations, students, gain first-hand knowledge of how corporations and governments can work together to build new economic centers and address the poverty in the townships of Cape Town.
